

To make setting up wireless security easier for consumers a brand-new feature called WPS or "Wireless Protected Setup" has been recently developed. WPS makes setting up wireless encryption easy and has even been incorporated in the new Windows 7 operating system. WPS involves simply typing in a pin number or pressing a button. If both the wireless router and a machine you're connecting to support WPS your encryption type and security key is randomly generated automatically on both devices. In theory this makes setting up a wireless network so simple just a 10-year-old can manage it. (Whether that's smart or not still remains to be seen).
